OFFICIAL PAPER OF MONTANA AND
 LEWIS AND CLARKE COUNTY.

The INDEPENDENT has a larger daily circulation than any newspaper between St. Paul and Portland and a larger circulation than any other two daily papers published in Montana. It has no press room secrets; its subscription books are open to inspection, and it is always ready to prove that its circulation is as represented.

Entered at the Postoffice at Helena as second-class matter.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Congressman Springer is said to have determined to introduce a bill for a constitutional amendment providing that congress shall have power to enact laws relating to marriage and divorce, the purpose being to do away with the inequalities that at present exist in the several states and territories upon those subjects. A congressional committee has had the subject under investigation for about a year, and a report will be made before the close of the present session which will, it is understood, recommend the submission of an amendment to the constitution. Among the absurdities of the present system—or lack of system—is the fact that while in some states the marriage of a divorced person is forbidden, the law may be evaded by the interested ones crossing over the state line and being married under the laws of another commonwealth, when they may return to their own state as legally and effectually married as though no prohibitive statute existed. The difference in causes for which divorce may be obtained in the several states and territories furnishes, also, a strong argument in favor of the enactment of a national law. The world has grown away from the mosaic law of divorce as well as from that of retaliation, and the statutes of all civilized countries now recognize that instances may and do arise wherein a separation by due form of law is preferable to the continuance of a union which may be degrading and altogether intolerable to one or both of the persons concerned, and in order that all may be amenable to the same rules it is advisable that the marriage relation should be regulated by national laws.

THE SQUIRREL BOUNTY.

The press of Bozeman is still clamoring for the re-enactment of the squirrel-bounty law, and asserts that the passing of a law offering bounty for the destruction of wolves, coyotes, mountain lions and bears, but which does not include squirrels and prairie dogs, would be placing a burden on Gallatin county for the benefit of stock-growing counties. The objection might have suggested to the editor who advances it the question how far the enactment of a squirrel-bounty law would be imposing a burden upon such counties as Lewis and Clarke and Silver Bow for the benefit of Gallatin. If the argument of the Bozeman Chronicle has any force, so also has the last suggestion, for the taxes paid into the territorial treasury by either Lewis and Clarke or Silver Bow county far exceed those collected in any other county in Montana, while there would be but a trifling proportion of a squirrel-bounty fund expended in or for the benefit of those two counties.

The fact that the destruction of mountain lions, bears and wolves is accompanied with some personal risk may be urged with reason as an argument in favor of a payment of bounty for the skins of stock-killing animals. No such plea can be brought forward by the advocates of the squirrel-bounty law, which, during the brief period it was in force, very nearly bankrupted the territorial treasury, as much by reason of the fraudulent character of many of the vouchers presented as because of the legitimate claims under the law. The extermination of ground squirrels can and should be accomplished without recourse to the treasury of the territory.

THE ROCKY FORD ROAD.

The statement in the local columns of to-day's INDEPENDENT regarding the Rocky Ford & Cooke City railroad will interest the people of Helena especially and of the cities and towns on the line of the Northern Pacific railroad and its branches generally, because of the bearing it has upon the fuel question. As is generally known, the new railroad will open up the largest coal field in Montana, and one which will furnish coal of a quality superior to any that has been thus far discovered in the territory. The field is practically inexhaustible, and the company controlling it, has contracted to supply almost five hundred to two thousand tons daily for transportation. This will furnish a fine grade of coal for manufacturing and domestic purposes, at a reasonable price. The Helena smelter, which will soon be ready to begin operation, will thus have an ample fuel supply, free from the uncertainties that interfere with the working of furnaces in some other parts of the country, and enable it to compete successfully with the most favored works of similar character in Montana. The early completion of the Rocky Ford road is one of the most satisfactory events of recent occurrence in the northwest.

THE Chicago Inter Ocean suggests that it would be the proper thing for congress to elect Nathaniel P. Banks speaker of the house because he occupied that position in the Thirty-fourth congress, whereas the republican party first took form. The suggestion is characteristic of the republican party, which clings to the past with the proverbial tenacity of a hog to a root. A considerable element of the republican party is not aware that the war is over.

"When you're in Rome do as Romans do" is a precept that has been learned by the American base-ball players now traveling abroad. While they were in Honolulu they were entertained by King Kalakaua, who, while he plays a stiff game of poker, still adheres to the Adamite practice of dispensing with a fork at the table. Not wishing to appear proud, the ball-players adopted the king's plan of conveying their food from the plate to the mouth with their fingers, which was very kind of them, considering the fact that from childhood they had been taught to feed themselves with their knives.

WYOMING'S CLAIMS.

Delegate Carey, of Wyoming, has taken occasion to score Gov. Moonlight of the same territory, for his statement that Wyoming is not qualified for statehood, and that there has been no increase of population there in the last two years. According to Delegate Carey the vote last November showed an increase of more than 20 per cent. over the vote of 1886, at which time, according to Gov. Moonlight's report to the secretary of the interior, there was a population of 85,000. Mr. Carey declares that Wyoming is now better entitled to admission than Colorado was in 1876, when it was made a state.

The total vote of Wyoming in 1886 for delegate to congress was 9,377, and upon what basis Gov. Moonlight could have computed a population for the territory of 85,000 it is difficult to conceive. A liberal estimate, and the one most generally adopted, would be four of population to every vote cast, which would have given Wyoming two years ago about 36,500 inhabitants. Adding 20 per cent. would give a population last November of about 43,800, from which it will be readily seen that the governor is now, whatever he may have said in 1886, nearer the truth than the delegate. It is very doubtful if Wyoming will have for several years to come the population that should entitle it to two senators and a representative in congress.

Montana cast 40,000 votes, in round numbers, at the last election, which, computing upon the same basis as that applied above, would indicate that this territory has a population of 160,000. The rich mines of Montana far exceed in value all the industries that Wyoming could boast, and in addition there are fertile agricultural valleys and vast stock ranges, where herds thrive and increase as they do not in many other sections. No one questions the qualifications of Montana for statehood, although political motives may cause the senate to leave the territory out in the cold until the republican congress can convene.

FROM Milwaukee the information is sent out that Henry C. Paine can only accept a cabinet appointment at the sacrifice of a business that is bringing him in $15,000 to $20,000 a year. If congress, attention is called to this fact it will hasten to make a special appropriation in order that the country need not be deprived of the services of Mr. Paine, who when he took charge of the Milwaukee postoffice, a few years ago, had just gone through bankruptcy.

GEN. PAUL VANDERVOORT, who charges that Gen. John M. Palmer, of Illinois, attempted to use the Grand Army of the Republic to further his gubernatorial aspirations in 1877, was himself dismissed from the railway mail service for giving more attention to politics than to his duties as a servant of the government. Corroborative evidence will be required by those who know Vandervoort before his statements will be accepted as gospel.

TERRITORIAL JOTTINGS.

Charles Taylor has received his commission as postmaster of Great Falls in place of Paris Gibson, resigned. The first postmaster in Great Falls having served about four years, the new postmaster, while not an "offensive partisan," is republican in politics.

The order for the suspension of the Miles City and Spearhead mail route, issued last November, has been countermanded by the postoffice department after a protest from the people of Miles City and no change will be made in the present service, which is said to be most excellent.

The schools of Bozeman have been closed as a precautionary measure against the spread of a scarlet fever, which is at present prevalent in that town. As yet there have been but two deaths, one the infant child of Mr. Crouch, the other Elmer, the 10-year old daughter of Mrs. Frank Harper, who died on Monday night.

River Press: The adaptability of Choteau county soil and climate to the successful raising of Scotch, Fife, or hard wheat, has been so thoroughly demonstrated during the past two years that all doubts concerning the future of the infant child of Montana are also the only portion of the territory where good crops can be raised without irrigation.

THE MARKETS.

STOCKS.

New York, Jan. 10.—Bar silver, 92 1/2. Copper—Butt strong; lake and January, $17.50.

Lead—Steady.

The stock market simply waited the result of the railroad conference, and the meagreness of reports from that source was the reason of much despondency to speculative investors. Stocks seemed to be the most prominent. Opening figures were generally a slight fraction above those of last evening, and in the early trading the advance tendency was pronounced. All through, except Western Union, the market closed extremely dull and steady at slight changes from the opening. Government bonds did not firm. Petroleum opened steady and closed firm at 87 1/2.
